Four battleships of the Dreadnaught type have been contracted for in the British shipyards in the name of Brazil and Argentina, but it is believed they are a speculative investment and will be offered for sale.

Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch has been elected judge in Evanston, Ill., and White Ribbons are glad of this. A thorough legal training given her the qualifications needed, and makes her equal to any case which may come before her for trial. She is a member of the Evanston Union, while her suffrage work is known all over our country. The members of this organization hope that the movement will not stop with Mrs. McCulloch's election, but that it will spread, and other qualified ones be elected to similar positions.

As a result of his editorial saying that he had an available "dark horse" for the Democratic Presidential nomination of 1908 Henry Watterson of the Louisville Courier-Journal is getting many telegraphic inquiries as to the identity of the man. One man asked whether the "dark horse" has a mustache. Mr. Watterson answered that the last time he saw him, which was three or four years ago, he had a mustache and it was not touched with gray. Mr. Watterson, however, declines to discuss the question.

Announcement is made that a national conference of the Independence League of the various states had been called to meet in New York City in September. This is taken to be the first formal announcement of the Hearst intentions as to the Presidency. No official notice on that subject was forthcoming. The Hearst people now have fairly well organized political machines in New York, Illinois, California and Massachusetts, a nucleus in Texas, and find hopes in many other states which enthusiastic Hearstites say will blossom into excellent organizations between now and the time for the Presidential campaign.

Of a Journey West

Rockland Man's Notes of a Springtime Vacation Trip By Rail.

Chicago has pretty well recovered from the Packington scare, with the feeling that government inspection and the ambition of the packers themselves practically had wiped out whatever cause for criticism that might have existed in the past. This feeling, now pretty widespread, is justified by Professor Shafter Mathews, the results of his careful investigation into the packing industry as at present carried on.

"My examination of Packington," says Prof. Mathews, "extended over a week in which I investigated the agent plants. I saw every stage of the packing process and visited the most important departments frequently. I saw the houses under all conditions, from full operations to clean-up. So far as I know there is no stage of the production of food products I have overlooked. The real question that interests people who, like myself, are plain buyers and consumers of beef and mutton and pork is whether the meat which comes to our tables is slaughtered and prepared under healthful conditions."

Professor Mathews found overwhelming evidence that this meat is healthful. As one enters Packington," he said, "the first thing that strikes the eye is the office of the Humane Society, whose officers see to it that there is no unnecessary suffering for the thousands of animals that are daily brought here for slaughter."

He describes the sharp scrutiny to which the animals are subjected by the government inspectors looking for tell-tale marks of lumpy jaw and tuberculosis, as well as other diseases.

Aided by two experts Prof. Mathews gave special attention to the slaughtering process and justifies his clean bill of health for the packers' good on the following grounds:

That the government inspection is quiet, relentless and unimpeachable in its integrity.

That the carcasses, once exposed, never touch the floor.

That there is a constant flow of water on the killing floor, sweeping away dirt and debris.

That the government inspection now includes not only the killing but every subsequent process up to the time the products are sealed in their cans.

The sausage rooms arouse a popular interest that borders on suspicion. It is hard to forget the jokes and the gossip which one hears about their product. People are simply mistaken. The machinery is scrupulously neat. All sausage meat has passed an inspection before it comes to the cutting room.

In conclusion Prof. Mathews says: "Three things stand out most clearly in my mind as characterizing the Packington of today. The extraordinary organization of the meat industry; the evident determination of every packing plant to be cleanly, and, possibly most of all, the vicarious sacrifices demanded by modern industry. Gratitude to the thousands of men who are to-day doing work which must be done if society is to eat, but which under the most ideal circumstances, must be disagreeable."

If you go to Chicago, don't fail to visit Packington. It will be an experience you will never regret.

On arriving back down town we went into the barber shop at the corner of LaSalle and the postoffice. Mr. Wood is a native of Portsmouth, N. H., and has been in Chicago for 17 years. He had 5500 when he went into business; he now owns the building in which he is located, has his own rent free and receives $300 a month from the rent of the building. He got into conversation with some barbers who have a habit of doing. He said he had an uncle who bartered for many years in the hotel at Damariscotta. Perhaps some of my readers knew him. He also said that he had just shaved a Mr. Danforth who was on his way to Rockland where he was

Saturday morning was a strenuous one and although we had rubbered much our necks were still in fair shape. Our first visit was to the Masonic Temple, one of the real sight places of Chicago. The Temple is 22 stories high, with two additional flights before the observatory is reached, from which a grand view is obtained of the city and lake. There are 14 elevators and 20,000 people visit the Temple daily. The building was erected in 1837 at an immense cost. It has 250 offices and stores and 34 lodge rooms. It was not built by the Masons as generally supposed. It is a paying investment.

Another place visited this morning was the Marshall Field department store—the largest in the world. It is a massive, severely plain structure, and covers 32 acres. It takes 5000 employees to run this establishment. The building extends 50 feet under ground. The entire room with its engines and motors furnishes heat, power and lights in every detail. Under the Field store is an entrance to the subway which traverses the city for many miles. The trains in the subway are operated by electricity but are used for freight business only. The "No Admittance" sign was up but we got into the subway and did not leave until we had seen all we cared for. Great is the power of a poor cigar and good talk.

Mr. Chase hunted for an Elk pin and found one. There are lots of Elks in Chicago.

We had to go without dinner in order to catch the train for Danville, which we reached on time, and were given a hearty welcome by Mr. and Mrs. Sidelinger, Mrs. Thomas, and sister, Mrs. Payer, and baby Danahy.

Sunday was devoted to a ride around the city. The day was like that in June and could not be more satisfactory if made to order. The weather since then has been miserable—simply Nov. in the memory of the oldest inhabitant has there been anything like it. It has been rain and cold and rain. At this writing it looks better.

Danville has certainly grown. On my first visit here eight years ago the people by a stretch of the imagination claimed a population of 11,000. It is now near 40,000 and still growing. You can see it on every hand—new business blocks going up, new dwellings being erected and new manufacturing plants being built.

There is no guess work about it. And there is no abatement of taxes and no requests for the public to take stock. There is business, business everywhere. A car shop plant is nearing completion, but orders are being taken every day. Only this week an order for a large number of cars was received from a southern railroad. They will be delivered on time, I can assure you. Four years ago there was but one large brick yard here; now there are half a dozen. Two new railroads pass through the city. This is a great railroad center and the foot of the whistle can be heard at all hours of the day and night. In one car shop alone more than 3000 men are employed.

When Mr. Sidelinger came here he had 11 sales of pipe, now he has under ground about 120 miles, and a gang of 60 or 70 men are laying more as fast as they can, and he has nearly 4000 con sumers on his books. Of this water every gallon is filtered through thick beds of pulverized white quartz, crushed in fine sharp sand, which is manufactured for this special purpose. These filters hold back all the impurities of the water, and the filtered water is in purity like natural spring water. This has passed through the cleansing of the earth. The filters are thoroughly washed at least twice a day with great quantities of clear, filtered water. The water is forced up through the quartz beds from below under heavy pressure, the sand being thoroughly stirred by air and steam power during the washing process, which leaves it white and clean as originally.

Most scrupulous cleanliness is regarded in the premises where the filtering is carried on, and all the impurities taken out of the water are washed directly out of the buildings and into the sewers. During the filtering process the water becomes thoroughly aerated and charged with oxygen which oxidizes or chemically destroys what is too minute to be visible, leaving the water pure and healthful. Mr. Sidelinger is now considered an authority on water works and is frequently called to give expert testimony before state officials and people high in authority.

Monday morning we visited Mine No. 4 of the Kelley Coal Co.'s plants and were shown every courtesy by the superintendent, George G. Rowland. Here again we met with the "no admittance" sign but we were from Maine and got what we went for. Putting on rubber boots, overalls and caps we descended in the elevator 155 feet straight down into the bowels of the earth. It didn't take but a few seconds to make the descent but it was an experience never to be forgotten. It was darkness of the darkest kind, but after getting used to it it wasn't bad. This mine has a vein of coal from seven to eleven feet in thickness and 400 men are employed. It extends for miles in a main tunnel with many branches. The motive power is aules who have quarters under ground and are kept there as long as there is anything for them to do. We visited the mule quarters and each animal has a large roomy stall with sides of solid stone. They are well fed and watered and do not mind the underground life at all. This mine produces 2400 tons of coal a day, which is loaded directly onto the cars.

Chicago is 123 miles from Danville and it is said that enough coal goes into the city every day to fill a freight train that would reach the whole distance. The coal is all obtained from Danville and vicinity.

Monday evening we were entertained by Mrs. David L. Beyer, Mrs. Thomas Payer, at a dinner party. It was an occasion replete with many pleasures and Mrs. Payer proved herself a capital hostess. On our return home we encountered one of those storms for which this west is famous. The wind blew with the force of a hurricane and the rain fell in torrents.

Tuesday Mr. Chase left for St. Louis and Moberly, Missouri to visit his brothers and where, no doubt, he is having a thoroughly good time.

Wednesday it stormed again and I kept to the house. The next day I visited the glass works and had a new experience. This plant is engaged wholly in the manufacture of bottles of every size, mostly for the drug trade, and employs 400 men, boys and girls. It would be useless for me to try and explain the process, but sufficient is it to say that this plant turns out 1200 gross of bottles each day. The plant runs day and night. The men make good wages, the blowers earning from $7 to $10 a day, and many of them own fine homes.

Danville is a beer town. Not only has it a brewery of its own but beer is brought here in large quantities from Terre Haute and other places. There are about 30 saloons, the license fee is $50 a year and this city derives a revenue of $70,000 yearly. The saloons are confined to certain limits and in the saloon districts can always be seen gangs of loafers, and the atmosphere is redolent with beer steams. Although all kinds of wines and hard liquors are sold beer is the great beverage. No comment is necessary.

Danville is certainly gaining and is destined to be the first city in the state outside Chicago.

I met E. E. Payson, formerly of the firm of Mowbray & Payson, Park street paint manufacturers. Mr. Payson is in the plumbing business with Mr. Carson and they are having all the work they can handle. They now have two large contracts, one at the Soldiers Home and the other with the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Ry. Carson & Payson have broken ground and have begun the erection of a building of their own. The outlook for the coming year is very promising.

Talk about sudden rises. Here in the west is where you will find them. For instance I was introduced to a gentleman who seven years ago was a policeman. He borrowed a little money, opened an office, went into the investment business and now owns a nice new stone block of his own. He has accumulated much wealth, has built a handsome residence and is getting very rich fast. This is going some in seven years.

NOTES BY THE WAY.
The day before we reached Montreal twelve special trains, carrying nearly 3000 emigrants left for the west. This is the largest number that ever left this city in one day and the railroad officials had a busy time looking after the crowd.

Montreal had an automobile show last week that was attended by more than 20,000 people.

While in Montreal we were shown every courtesy by M. J. Guinan, District Passenger Agent, and M. C. W. Johnston, travelling passenger agent of the Grand Trunk.

At the Montreal hotels lunch is served at noon and dinner in the evening.

Dr. Belle Ayers lived in Danville some 30 years ago, attending school here. The school building has long since disappeared to give place to a larger and better one.

It is rumored in Chicago that a stupendous railroad project, involving the construction of a four track submarine tube 22 miles long under Lake Michigan, connecting Gary, Indiana, with the Chicago subway has come to light. The work means the expenditure of millions of dollars. The report has been practically confirmed.

Last week permits were granted for the erection of 166 buildings in Chicago to cost $1,166,000. Just think of it.

Chicago don't own the street railroads yet and the indications are that she never will. The old fashioned street car is still being used in many of the Chicago street cars.

A bill has passed the Illinois legislature to abolish the grand jury system. It is said to be too expensive and an unnecessary adjunct for the administration of justice. Many of the western states are also considering this question.

Commissioner of Public Works Hansberg of Chicago has issued 40,000 tin signs asking the citizens to cooperate in helping keep the streets clean. The city appropriated $36,000.

The conductors on the Burlington road have been ordered to shave clean every day, throw away celluloid collars, wear white ties and white linen waist coats. The order went into effect May 1. One of the conductors had worn a beard for 35 years.

On the return home I had the pleasure of witnessing a ball game in Chicago between the Chicago and Philadelphia of the American League. The day was cold and a biting, cold, raw wind blew across the city, but a crowd of several thousand kept warm with enthusiasm. As for myself, I was interested, especially so, in account of seeing Mike Powers' work behind the bat for the Philadelphia. Powers, it will be remembered, caught for Warren the year Rockland won the pennant by one game. All this fans will remember. He is the same "Jank" feature, black haired, pleasant and agreeable fellow he was then. He is one of the best men behind the bat in the baseball world and is a tower of strength to his team. After the game I had the pleasure of a ten minutes' conversation with him and he inquired after the Robinsons, Newberts and other baseball enthusiasts of Knox county. Although pretty near the top of the ladder he hadn't forgotten the pleasant summer he spent here.

The weather continues bad and I hope to see the sun once again before I get home. The month of March was ideal. Trees leaved out, as did also the rose bushes and peach trees, and all kinds of vegetation sprung up as if by magic. There came the frost in April and everything was killed. Corn has not yet been planted and the farmers do not know when they will begin. There is certainly a dead sky but outlook but everything grows quickly here and when the sun does come out then there will be better cheer.

But I guess I have said enough. John W. Thomas.

Capt. Shea of the Whitehead Life Saving Station is in the city Saturday. Besides being a highly efficient officer Capt. Shea is one of the best liked men in the service.

Frank W. Moss is making extensive repairs upon his two large barns at Morse's Corner. He will also be busy planting asparagus. He will have green peas for his Fourth of July dinner.

George Perry has arrived home from Hartford, Conn., where he has been employed on the bridge contract. Mr. Perry comes home at this time on account of poor health, although the bridge job is rapidly nearing completion.

The crew of the steamer Camden is being selected. Mr. Mason, formerly of the City of Rockland, will be chief engineer. His assistants will be Mr. Staples, formerly of the steamer Gov. Cobb and Mr. Fox, formerly of the steamer Hanson B. Fuller.

The thousand feet of new hose lately bought for the fire department were tested Saturday on steamer No. 1. This steamer had not been in use since the hatched fire on Cockett's Point last summer, but performed its service to perfection. And the new hose stood the strain.

The mercury took a strange freak Sunday morning, and passed the mark. Cool winds and a shower or two overtook the warm wave in the early afternoon and the pretty girls rushed home to remove their mushroom hats. Monday morning found the East Wind still triumphant.

The birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond S. Bird, Saturday, establishes a fourth generation in the family of Hon. Sidney M. Bird. The honored name of the great grandfather was promptly bequeathed upon the new arrival, who was baptized with the name of a check for $100 upon the day of his birth.

The college commencement announcements are beginning to arrive. Bowdoin's is the first to reach the editor's desk. It is dated June 23-27 at Brunswick. Exercises commemorative of the 100th anniversary of the birth of Henry W. Longfellow are to be held June 26. The annual meeting of the Alumni Association will be held the following day.

"Medical Temperance" was the subject of the W. C. T. U. meeting Friday afternoon. A chart showing the amount of alcohol in the most popular patent medicines was on exhibition. A letter was read from Mrs. Martha M. Allen, superintendent of the department, stating that a certain patent medicine, a "new discovery," contained 32 percent of alcohol. The opinions of leading physicians were read.

A call has been issued for a meeting in Portland tomorrow where it is proposed to organize a state temperance society, the sole work of which shall be to encourage total abstinence by the example and influence of its members. The organization will be absolutely non-political and non-sectarian. Among the signers of the call are A. S. Littlefield of Rockland, Senator Staples of Washington and Senator Mills of Stonington.

George Ames is to manage the New Elvethere at Beachwood this summer. The hotel will be open from the middle of June until October. Beachwood was formerly known as Goose Rocks. It is only five miles from the beautiful and fashionable summer resort, Kennebunkport, and four miles from the Ford Pool. The hotel is one of the prettiest and best arranged of its size on the coast. If you want to know more about it write to Mr. Ames, R. F. D. No. 2, Biddeford, Me.

The opening of the Grange dance season at South Portland, Friday night, was a decided success in every way. Every seat was taken at the concert and the numbers on the program were all well rendered and appreciated. The song for cornucopia was sung by H. D. Farnham and played by Hiram Burns made a hit and Mr. Burns responded to an encore. Ninety couples enjoyed the dance which lasted until 1 o'clock. "Was one of the good times at the Rock."

While Judge Campbell was on his way home Friday evening his attention was attracted to a horse, driven by a young Hebrew, which was making laborious efforts to draw the wagon to which it was attached. The horse was worn out that he stopped about every 10 feet, unable to take another step. The judge learned the owner's name, and told the driver to see that the horse was not taken from the stable again for three or five days. Saturday morning he sent Officer Whitten to the Hebrew's home and was assured by the latter that the horse should have a week's rest. Judge Campbell's humanity extends beyond the little square room in which he dispenses justice.

The Livingston Manufacturing Co. have purchased the entire plant and business of Nutting & Hayden, manufacturers of bush and scotch hammers, Concord, N. H., and will merge the same with their own in this city. They will sell a portion of the machinery, which they do not need, and remove the remainder, and all the stock, to their shops here. The purchase includes the patents and special machinery for the manufacture of the Nutting & Hayden bush hammer, which is in use all over the country, having some advantages over other kinds of hammers generally recognized. The Livingston Co. will employ a crew of these hammers exclusively, and the purchase will have the effect to considerably increase their already large and growing business in granite working tools for shed and quarry. The business in the machinery department is also being increased.

DR. SALIE

All members of E-Spar Club are requested to meet at the home of Mrs. A. D. Bird Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. Important matters are to be discussed and arrangements made for the study of Esperanto during the summer. New members are welcome.

Nile G. H. Gray is in charge of the Oakland Park Cafe this summer. The Oakland House will be looked after by F. J. Thornton of Providence, who, combining the merits of an old hotel man and a commercial traveler, is certain to give the best of satisfaction.

The Socialists are to hold a mass meeting in this city, probably June 2, for the purpose of raising funds to assist in the defense of Meyer, Haywood and Pettibone in Idaho. Miss Lucella Twining of Denver will be one of the speakers, and the Rockland Military Band will donate a concert.

C. S. Beverage, A. E. Brunner, Walter Bird and Frank B. Miller attended the Y. M. C. A. state convention in Augusta, and incidentally visited all the cities in the state. Mr. Brunner, personally conducted by Mr. Miller. Mrs. Miller accompanied her husband and visited in Hallowell.

Pleasant Beach dwellers will regret to learn that S. A. Gould and wife are not to be in the summer colony this year. Mr. Gould has lately bought a 3-acre farm in Woburn, Mass., and the management of it will keep him busy this summer. The Goulds offer their cottage to rent for the season.

The department was called out early last evening by a small fire in Harry Johnson's stable on Park street, believed by the proprietor to be incendiary. Another fire of similar origin took place two hours later in the vacant carriage shop near the post office. The blaze was extinguished without the department's aid.

Harrison Dow, assistant operator at the Western Union office, and John Fearon the chain-lightning messenger boy were passing ball Friday afternoon. Fearon signalled for the wrong curve, and the ball struck Dow in the face, smashing his glasses and cutting his left eye so badly that several stitches were necessary.

Special Officer William H. Kallioch is his further search for property stolen by Walter Adams and Watson. He located a lady's valuable gold watch Saturday on Rector's person at the county jail. Rector claimed that it belonged to Wallace and that the latter bought it in Boston. Wallace said he bought it in Portland. The officers have no doubt that it was "purchased" in about the same manner as the hundreds of other articles the men have collected in the past three years. Engaged on the watch are what appear to be the letters "J. M. C."

A St. Louis paper states that the contract for the next four years' line supply to keep the city's water from becoming muddy has been awarded to the Glenside Lime Co. C. W. S. Cobb, a former Rockland man, is president of this company and a number of Rockland business men are interested in it. The paper states that the contract was given to the Glenside people as the most responsible bidder and the supply commission that their bid was considered the best for the city. The paper adds: "The line contract is a nice little plum, as the city requires 12,000 tons annually to purify the water. This amounts in dollars to $4,000."

ISLAND GRADUATES.

Stonington and Deer Isle Schools Have Commencements This Week.

The graduation exercises of the Deer Isle high school take place in town hall tomorrow evening. There are six in the graduating class, Lois Evelyn Thompson, Vivian Cecil Greenlaw, Myrtle Della Stinson, Clermont Krowlton, Alvan Marston Sellers and Benjamin Clyde Smith. Kelly's orchestra of Bar Harbor will furnish music. Tonight the Juniors will give the Seniors a reception.

The graduation exercises of the Stonington high school will occur in the opera house Thursday evening, May 23. The class parts assigned are as follows: Salutatory, Mary Wood; history, Flo Aray; prophecy, Georgia Combs; address to graduates, Helen Gleason; prayer, Raymond Hutchins; presentation of gifts, Mae Hamblin; valedictory, Mabel Waite. The graduation ball occurs Friday evening, for which Monaghan's orchestra of Ellsworth will supply the music.

WEST ROCKPORT

Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Leach, after an absence of some eight weeks, returned Thursday well pleased with their trip through the sunny South and equally glad to be at home once again with their old friends.

E. Orbon returned Saturday, having been absent several weeks looking after his lumbering interests at Piquette Falls.

Rev. Mr. of Providence, R. I. has accepted of the call from the church here and Rockville and with his family came on Friday of last week.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Keller will be pleased to know that there is a decided change for the better in their most sorely afflicted family.

The swallows, bobolinks and the warmth of Sunday last gave evidence that summer is not far away.

CARD OF THANKS.

We the undersigned wish to thank our neighbors and friends for the very great kindness, help and comfort extended to us during our long siege of illness and our recent heavy bereavement, but we realize how inadequate are words to express our deep gratitude to those who came to our aid, when to do so was a menace to their own safety. As they have shown so many they reap when their own hour of darkness shall envelop them.

CHAPTER VI.

THREE days later the north Atlantic squadron of the British navy sailed down the coast from Halifax, did not even pause at Bar Harbor, but sent a wireless telegram to the Consternation, which pulled up anchor and joined the fleet outside, and so the warships departed for another port.

Katherine stood by the broad window in the sewing room in her favorite attitude, her head sideways against the pane, her eyes languidly gazing upon the bay, fingers drumming this time a very slow march on the window sill. Dorothy sat in a rocking chair reading a letter for the second time. There had been silence in the room for some minutes, accentuated rather than broken by the quiet drumming of the girl's fingers on the window sill. Finally Katherine breathed a deep sigh and murmured to herself:

"Far called our navy fades away;
On dune and headland sinks the fire.
Lo, all our pomp of yesterday
Is one with Nineveh and Tyre!

I wonder if I've got the lines right," she whispered to herself. She had forgotten there was any one else in the room and was quite startled when Dorothy spoke.

"Kate, that's a solemn change, from Gilbert to Kipling. I always judge your mood by your quotations. Has life suddenly become too serious for 'Pinafore' or the Mikado?"

"Oh, I don't know," said Katherine, without turning round. "They are humorous all, and so each furnishes something suitable for the saddened mind. Wisdom comes through understanding your alphabet properly. For instance, first there was Gilbert, and that gave us G; then came Kipling, and he gave us K; then we got an algebraic formula, G. K., which are the initials of Chesterton, a still later arrival, and as the mind increases in despondency it sinks lower and lower down the alphabet until it comes to S, and thus we have Barnyard Shaw, an improvement on the Kallyard school, who takes the O of Shaw view of life. And relaxing hold of him I sink deeper until I come to W—W. M. Jacobs. How I wish he wrote poetry! He should be the humorist of all sailors, and perhaps some time he will desert barges for battleships. Then I shall read him with increased enjoyment."

"I wouldn't give Mark Twain for the lot," commented Dorothy, with decision.

"Mark Twain isn't yours to give, my dear. He belongs to me also. You've forgotten that comparisons are odious. Our meter is not to compare, but to take what pleases us from each."

"How do the little bugs here improve each shining hour
And gather honey all the day
From every opening flower."

Watts. You see, I'm still down among the W's. Oh, Dorothy, how can you sit there so placidly when the Consternation has just faded from sight? Sd fish creature!"

"Oh, give me tears for others' woes
And patience for mine own!"

I don't know who wrote that, but you have no tears for others' woes, merely greeting them with ribald laughter. For Dorothy, with the well read letter in her hand, was making the rafter's ring with her meriment, something that had never before happened during her long tenancy of that room. Kate turned her head slowly round, and the expression on her face was half indignant, half humorous, while her eyes were uncertain weather prophets and gave equal indication of sunshine or rain.

"Why, Katherine, you look like a tragedy queen, rather than the spirit of comedy! Is it really a case of 'Till-willow, tit-willow, tit-willow'? You see, I'm a-reading you from the bottom of the alphabet and bringing you up to the Gilbert plane, where I am more accustomed to you, and understand you better. Is this despondency due to the departure of the Consternation and the fact that she carries away with her Jack Lamont, blacksmith?"

The long sigh terminated in a woe-ful "Yes."

"The ship that has gone out with him we call she. If he had eloped with a real she, then wearing the willow or singing it, however futile, might be understandable. As it is I see nothing in the situation to call for a sigh."

"That is because you are a hardened sinner, Dorothy. You have no heart, or at least if you have it is untouched and therefore you cannot understand. If that note in your hand were a love missive instead of a letter from your lawyers, you would be more human, Dorothy."

The land which held the paper crumpled it up slightly as Katherine spoke. "Business letters are quite necessary and belong to the world we live in," said Dorothy, a glow of brighter color suffusing her cheeks. "Surely your acquaintance with Mr. Lamont is of the shortest."

"He has called upon me every day since the night of the ball," maintained Katherine stoutly.

"Well, that's only three times!"

"Only three! How long that! One would think you had never been that keeps it closed—typical of our hands at parting. On the dyleaf I wrote, 'To J. L. in remembrance of many interesting conversations with his friend, K. H.' It is only needed another K to be emblematic and political, a reminiscence of the old times, when you people of the south, Dorothy, were making it hot for us deserving folks in the north. I hadn't time to go through the book very thoroughly, but I found many references to limestone, which I marked, and one particularly choice bit of English relating to the dissolution and reconsolidation of various minerals I drew a parallelogram around in red ink. A friend of mine in a motor launch was good enough to take the little parcel direct to the Consternation, and I have no doubt that at this moment Jack is perusing it and perhaps thinking of the giver. I hope it's up to date and that he had not previously bought a copy."

"You don't mean to say, Kate, that your conversation was entirely about geology?"

"Certainly not. How could you have become imbued with an idea so absurd? We had many delightful dalliances down the romantic groves of chemistry, heart to heart talks on metallurgy, and once—ah, shall I ever forget it!—while the dusk gently unfolded and I gazed into those bright, speaking, intelligent eyes of his as he bent nearer and nearer, while his low, sonorous voice in well chosen words pictured to me the promise which forthwith cemented holds out to the world—that is, ignorant, portland cement strengthened by ribs of steel—and I sat listening breathless as his glowing phrases prophesied the future of this combination."

Katherine closed her eyes, rocked gently back and forth and crooned, almost inaudibly:

"When you gang away, Jimmie,
Four across the sea to Russian lands,
When will you send me, laddie?
What will you send me, laddie?
I know what I shall get,
For I have a newly discovered recipe
For the compounding of cement which will do away with the necessity of steel strengthening."

"Kate, dear, you are overdoing it. It is quite right that woman should be a mystery to man, but she should not aspire to become a mystery to her sister woman. Are you just making fun or is there something in all the more serious than your words imply?"

"Like the steel strengthening in the cement, it may be there, but you can't see it, and you can't touch it, but it makes—oh, such a difference to the slab! Helgho, Dorothy, let us forsake these hard headed subjects and turn to something human, do you have your lawyers been bothering you about?"

Dorothy shook her head.

"No. Of course there are various matters they have to consult me about and get my consent to this project or the other."

Read the letter. Perhaps my mathematical mind can be of assistance to you."

Dorothy had concealed the letter and did not now produce it.

"It is with reference to your assistance, and your continued assistance, that I wish to speak to you. Let us follow the example of the cement and the steel and form a compact. In one respect I am going to initiate the Consternation. I leave Bar Harbor next week."

Katherine sat up in her chair, and her eyes opened wide.

"What's the matter with Bar Harbor?" she asked.

"You can answer that question better than I, Kate. The Kempf family are not visitors, but live here all the year round. What do you think is the matter with Bar Harbor?"

"I confess it's a little dull in the winter time, and in all seasons it is situated a considerable distance from New York. Where do you intend to go, Dorothy?"

"That will depend largely on where my friend Kate advises me to go, because I shall take her with me if she will come."

"Companion, lady's maid, porter, maid, maid of all work, cook, governess, typewriter girl—what have I to be? Shall I get one afternoon a week off, and may my young man come and see me, if I happen to secure one, and, extremely important, what are the wages?"

"You shall fix your own salary, Kate, and my lawyer men will arrange that the chosen sum is settled upon you so that if we fall out we can quarrel on equal terms."

"Oh, I see, it's an adopted daughter I am to be, then."

"An adopted sister rather."

"Do you think I am going to take advantage of my friendship with an heiress and so pension myself off?"

"It is I who am taking the advantage," said Dorothy, "and I beg you to take compassion rather than advantage upon a lone creature who has no kith or kin in the world."

"Do you really mean it, Dot?"

"Of course I do. Should I propose it if I didn't?"

"Well, this is the first proposal I've ever had, and I believe it is customary to say on those occasions that it is so sudden or so unexpected, and time is required for consideration."

"How soon can you make up your mind, Kate?"

"Oh, my mind's already made up. I'm going to jump at your offer, but I think it more ladylike to pretend a mild reluctance. What are you going to do, Dorothy?"

"Don't know. I've settled on only one thing—I intend to build a little stone and the church, very quaint and old fashioned, if I get the right kind of architect to draw a plan for it, and this church is to be situated in Haverstock."

"Where's Haverstock?"

"It is a village near the Hudson river, on the plain that stretches toward the Catskills."

"It was there you lived with your father, was it not?"

"Yes, and my church is to be called the Dr. Amhurst Memorial church."

"And do you propose to live at Haverstock?"

"I was thinking of that."

"Wouldn't it be just a little dull?"

"Yes, I suppose it would, but it seems to me a suitable place where two young women may meditate on what they are going to do with their lives."

"Yes, that's an important question for the two of us. Dorothy, let's take the other side of the river and enter Vassar college. Then we should at least have some fun, and there would

Rheumatism

Badly Cripples a
Baldwinsville
Farmer

URIC-O QUICKLY CURED HIM

Treated Two Years with a High-Priced Physician with No Success

Mr. Frank Howe, a prominent farmer in the town of Van Buren, says: "I visited the best physician in this country, who treated me for about two years for rheumatism. I spent in that time several hundred dollars and seemed to grow worse instead of better each day. Being on crutches and forced to drive to the train and hobbling to the doctor's office became very discouraging, let alone the sleepless nights and fearful hours of pain. Being advised by a friend I purchased Smith's Urlic-O-prescription, took it home and used it that day as directed. 'Those fearful sciatic pains left me, my blood seemed to let loose and flow freely. I felt different and knew the next morning I had found a cure, as I slept and rested well all that night, something I had not done before in two years. I used in all six bottles of Urlic-O and have never felt a return of the disease, had no use for crutches or cane since the first day's treatment. 'I have since recommended Urlic-O to hundreds of friends and acquaintances and in every instance it gave remarkable relief. To every person who suffers from Rheumatism I say, take Urlic-O at once and your suffering will soon end."

FRANK HOWE, Baldwinsville, N. Y.

Anyone who doubts Mr. Howe's experience in using Urlic-O for his rheumatism, may be sure that the manufacturers have so much confidence in the remedy that they will gladly give a large bottle of Urlic-O free to all Rheumatism who have never used it and are looking for a permanent, lasting cure for this most distressing disease. Address for free trial, Smith Drug Co., Syracuse, N. Y. Urlic-O is sold and recommended in Rockland by Titus & Hills.

be some reasonably well educated people to speak to."

"Oh, you wish to use your lately acquired scientific knowledge in order to pass the examinations. But, you see, I have had no tutor to school me in the mysteries of time burning and the mixing of cement. Now, you have scorned my side of the river, and I have objected to your side of the river. That is the bad beginning which, let us hope, makes the good ending. Who is to arbitrate in our dispute?"

"Why, we'll split the difference, of course."

"How can we do that? Live in a house on the river like Frank Stockton's 'Rudder Grange'?"

"No, settle in the city of New York, which is practically an island in the Hudson."

"Would you like to live in New York?"

"Wouldn't I! Imagine any one having the chance living anywhere else."

"Is a hotel, I suppose—the Halldorf for choice?"

"Yes; we could live in a hotel until we found the ideal flat, high up in a nice apartment house, with a view like that from the top of Mount Washington or from the top of the Washington monument."

But you forget I made one proviso in the beginning, and that is that I am going to build a church, and the church is to be situated not in the city of New York, but in the village of Haverstock."

"New York is just the place from which to construct such an edifice. Haverstock will be somewhere near the West Shore railway. Very well. We can take a trip up there once a week or oftener, if you like, and see how the work is progressing. Then the people of Haverstock will respect us. As we drive from the station they'll say:

"There's the two young ladies from New York who are building the church."

"But if we settle down among them they'll think we're only ordinary villagers instead of the distinguished persons we are. Or, while our flat is being made ready we could live at one of the big hotels in the Catskills and come down as often as we like on the inclined railway. Indeed, until the weather gets colder the Catskills is the place."

"And, lo, the Catskills print the distant sky.
And over their airy tops the faint clouds
So softly blending that the cheated eye
Forgets or which is earth or which is heaven."

"That ought to carry the day for the Catskills, Kate. What sort of habitation shall we choose, a big hotel or a select private boarding house?"

"Oh, a big hotel, of course—the biggest there is, whatever its name may be—one of those whose rates are so high that the proprietor doesn't advertise them, but says in his announcement, 'For terms apply to the manager.' It must have ample grounds, support an excellent band and advertise a renowned cuisine. Your room at least should have a private balcony on which you can place a telescope and watch the building of your church down below. I being a humble person in a subordinate position, should have a balcony also to make up for those deficiencies."

"Very well, Kate; that's settled. But, although two lone women may set up housekeeping in a New York flat, they cannot very well go alone to a fashionable hotel."

"Oh, yes, we can. Best of references given and required."

"I was going to suggest," pursued Dorothy, not noticing the interruption, "that we invite your father and mother to accompany us. They might enjoy a change from sea air to mountain air."

Katherine frowned a little and demurred.

"Are you going to be fearfully conventional, Dorothy?"

"We must pay some attention to the conventions, don't you think?"

"I had hoped not. I yearn to be a bachelor girl and own a latchkey."

"We shall each possess a latchkey when we settle down in New York. Our flat will be our castle, and, although our latchkey will let us in, our Yale lock will keep other people out. A noted summer resort calls for different treatment, because there we lead a semipublic life. Besides, I am selfish enough to wish my coming out to be under the auspices of so well known a man as Captain Kempf."

"All right; I'll see what they say about it. You don't want Sabina, I take it?"

"Yes, if she will consent to come."

"I doubt if she will, but I'll see. Besides, now that I come to think about it, it's only fair I should allow my dotting parents to know that I am about to desert them."

With that Katherine quitted the room and went down the stairs happily-begging Dorothy draw the letter from its place of concealment and read it for the third time, although one not interested might have termed it a most commonplace document. It began, "Dear Miss Amhurst," and ended, "Yours most sincerely, Alan Drummond."

It gave some account of his doings since he had good-bye to her. A sailor, he informed her, needs little time for packing his belongings, and on the occasion in question the prince had been of great assistance. They set out together for the early morning train and said "au revoir" at the station. Drummond had intended to sail from New York, but a friendly person whom he met on the train informed him that the Liverpool liner Enthusiana set out from Boston next day, and he had abandoned the New York Idea and had taken passage on the liner named, on whose note paper he wrote the letter, which epistle was once more concealed as Dorothy heard Katherine's light step on the stairs.

That inquisitive young woman burst into the sewing room.

"We're all going," she cried—"father, mother and Sabina. It seems father has had an excellent offer to let the house furnished till the end of September, and he says that as he likes high life he will put in the time on the top of the Catskills. He abandons me and says that if he can borrow a shilling he is going to cut me off with it in his will. He regrets the departure of the British fleet, because he thinks he might have been able to raise a real English shilling aboard. Dad only insists on one condition—namely, that he is to pay for himself, mother and Sabina, so he does not want a room with a balcony. I said that in spite of his disinclination I'd help the family out of my salary, and so he is going to reconsider the changing of his will."

"We will settle the conditions when we reach the Catskills," said Dorothy, smiling.

CHAPTER VII.

CAPTAIN and Mrs. Kempf, with Sabina, had resided a week in the Matherhorn hotel before the two girls arrived there. They had gone direct to New York, and it required the seven days to find a flat that suited them, of which they were to take possession on the 1st of October. Then there were the lawyers to see, a great many business details to settle and an architect to consult. After leaving New York the girls spent a day at Haverstock, where Dorothy Amhurst bought a piece of land as shrewdly as if she had been in the real estate business all her life. After this transaction the girls drove to the station on the line connecting with the inclined railway and as, as Katherine remarked, were "wafted to the skies on flowery beds of ease," which she explained to her shocked companion was all right because it was a quotation from a hymn. When at last they reached their hotel, Katherine was in ecstasies.

"Isn't this heavenly?" she cried.

"And indeed it ought to be, for I understand we are 3,000 feet higher than we were in New York, and even the skyscrapers can't compete with such an altitude."

The broad valley of the Hudson lay spread beneath them, stretching as far as the eye could see, shimmering in the thin, bluish veil of a summer evening, and miles away the river itself could be traced like a silver ribbon.

The gallant captain, who had been energetically browbeaten by his young daughter and threatened with divers pains and penalties should he fail to pay attention and take heed to instructions, had acquitted himself with eclat in the selection of rooms for Dorothy and her sister. The suit was situated in one corner of the huge cavernous, a large parlor occupying the angle, with windows on one side looking into the forest and on the other giving an extended view across the valley. The front room adjoining the parlor was to be Dorothy's very own, and the end room belonged to Katherine. He said, as long as she behaved herself, if Dorothy ever wished to evict her strenuous neighbor, all she had to do was to call upon the captain, and he would lend his aid, at which proffer of assistance Katherine tossed her head and said she would try to do it out Dorothy would have to go.

There followed days and nights of revelry—hops, concerts, entertainments of all sorts, with a more pretentious ball on Saturday night, when the week-tired man from New York arrived in the afternoon to find temperatures 29 degrees lower and the altitude very much higher than was the case in his busy office in the city. Katherine reveled in this round of excitement, and, indeed, so, in a milder way, did Dorothy. After the functions were over the girls enjoyed a comforting chat with one another in their drawing room, all windows open, and the moon shining down over the luminous valley, which it seemed to fill with mother of pearl dust.

Young J. K. Henderson of New York, having danced repeatedly with Katherine on Saturday night, unexpectedly turned up for the hop on the following Wednesday, when he again danced repeatedly with the same young girl. It being somewhat unusual for a keen business man to take a four hours' journey during an afternoon in the middle of the week and as a consequence arrive late at his office next morning, Dorothy began to wonder if a concrete formation, associated with the name of Prince Ivan Lermonoff of Russia, was strong enough to stand an energetic assault of this nature, supposing it were to be constantly repeated. It was after midnight on Wednesday when the two reached the corner parlor. Dorothy sat in a cane armchair, while Katherine threw her-

"Why is it strange?" asked Katherine. "Mr. Henderson is not a clerk bound down to office hours. He's an official high up in one of the big insurance companies and gets a simply tremendous salary."

"Really? Does he talk as well as Jack Lamont did?"

"He talks less like the Troy Technical Institute and more like the Home Journal than poor Prince Jack did, and, then, he has a much greater sense of humor. When I told him that the oath of an insurance man should be 'bet your life' he laughed. Now, Jack would never have seen the point of that. Anyhow, the hour is too late and I am too sleepy to worry about young men or jokes either. Good night!"

Next morning's mail brought Dorothy a bulky letter decorated with English stamps. She locked the door, tore open the envelope and found many sheets of thin paper bearing the heading of the Bluewater Club Fall Mail.

"I am reminded of an old adage," she read, "to the effect that one should never cross a bridge before arriving at it. Since I bade good-bye to you up this very evening I have been plodding over a bridge that didn't exist, much to my own discomfort. You were with me when I received the message ordering me home to England, and I don't know whether or not I succeeded in suppressing all signs of my own perturbation, but we have in the navy now a man who does not hesitate to overturn a court martial, and so I feared a reopening of the Rock in the Baltic question, which might have meant the ending of my career. I had quite made up my mind, if the worst came to the worst, to go out west and become a cowboy, but a passenger with whom I became acquainted on the Enthusiana informed me, to my regret, that the cowboy is largely a being of the past, to be met with only in the writings of Stewart Edwards. White, Owen, Walter and several other famous men whom he named. So you see I went across the ocean tolerably depressed, finding my present occupation threatened and my future uncertain."

"When I arrived in London, I took a room at this club, of which I have been a member for some years, and reported immediately at the admiralty. But there, in spite of all diligence on my part, I was quite unable to learn what was wanted of me. Of course I could have gone to my uncle, who is in the government, and perhaps he might have enlightened me, although he has nothing to do with the navy, but I rather like to avoid Uncle Metgurne. He brought me up since I was a small boy and seems unnecessarily ashamed of the result. It is his son who is the attaché in St. Petersburg that I spoke to you about."

Dorothy ceased reading for a moment.

"Metgurne, Metgurne," she said to herself. "Surely I know that name."

She laid down the letter, pressed the electric button and unlocked the door. When the servant came, she said:

"Will you ask at the office if they have any biographical book of reference relating to Great Britain and, if so, please bring it to me?"

The servant appeared shortly after with a red book which proved to be an English "Who's Who" dated two years back. Turning the pages, she came to Metgurne.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient in which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, I can cure all curable cases of this heretofore most dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer with our help. Mr. and Mrs. Guy Crouse, who have been visiting at Mark Crouse's for two weeks, left Saturday for their home in North Chatham.

This town should have a candidate in the voting contest just started by this paper. It isn't every day that an opportunity is given to go on such a trip as to the Jamestown Exposition. The person who wins is allowed to select a companion. All bills are paid by this paper for both. A Thomaston candidate has just secured an opportunity of winning as a candidate from any other place. This is a good opportunity to get into the contest. The votes are waiting to be called for and with a little vote much can be accomplished.

A chance to become one of the ladies of Thomaston and vicinity, will be a series of six free cooking lectures by Myrtle Ethelyn Robinson, a graduate of Boston Normal School of Domestic Science, in Union Hall, May 27, 28, 29 and 31, at 2:30 p. m., May 29 at 10 o'clock a. m., and May 30 at 7:30 p. m. Come Monday, rain or shine and see what the work is, bring fork and spoon, also paper and pen, and other stationery. All are invited to attend these lectures and in many towns have been a society event. Cook books given.

Guy Libby Will Recover.

Latest Word Concerning Victim of Thomaston Shooting—Chief Peabody Released On Bail.

"The patient is doing nicely and everything points to his complete recovery." Such was the welcome word from Knox hospital this morning concerning Guy C. Libby, who was shot in Thomaston last Thursday afternoon by Chief of Police Jess W. Peabody. The bullet, which was not far from the surface, and no ill results are expected to attend its extraction. Among the many who constantly inquire as to Mr. Libby's condition is Mrs. Peabody, wife of the unhappy officer.

Chief Peabody was arraigned before Judge Measey in the grand jury room Friday afternoon. Peabody's cause was found, and Mr. Peabody was bound over to the September term of court in the sum of $500. He furnished bail Saturday morning, the sureties being Clarence E. Ulmer of Rockland and Richard O. Elliott of Thomaston.

The grand jury room was crowded to suffocation when the trial began and scores stood patiently in the corridor, catching now and then a word when the attorneys raised their voices. Sheriff Tolman, with an eye to the interests of the citizens favored by the grand jury, to the supreme court room, but one of the attorneys for the defense objected on the ground that they were not playing to the grandstand. County Attorney Howard appeared for the state, while Chief Peabody had as counsel J. E. Moore and R. L. Thompson.

Dr. G. L. Crockett, the first witness, told of being called into the case about 5:30. He examined Mr. Libby in the back-up and found an aperture in his right side, under the armpit and in the vicinity of the sixth rib. He advised an immediate removal of the victim to the Knox hospital as soon as he found that the wound was of a serious character. Libby told him that he had been shot by Chief Peabody. Mr. Peabody told him that the boy had been shot. "I want you to do the best you can for him," the officer had said. He gave no details except that Libby was running away from him and he had shot him.

The succeeding witness was much sicker in his description of how the affair took place. The car arriving in Thomaston at 5:15 Thursday afternoon "ran by" the crossing at the head of Knox street, stopping at the head of the street. Chief Peabody, who was in the car, saw the car and started diagonally for Beechwoods street, which turns northward from Main street between Singer block and John Spear's store.

About 50 feet behind him came Chief Peabody. When the latter reached the entrance of Beechwoods street he called "Guy, stop!" Bystanders, immediately sending trouble, saw the officer draw his revolver and discharge it in the air. Libby kept on running, with Chief Peabody in pursuit. Their distance apart was relatively the same when Peabody reached the corner of the engine house and another shot from his revolver was heard. Libby by that time was out of the range of the spectators' vision. The crowd followed Chief Peabody, and those who first arrived on the scene saw the officer carrying Libby and unlocking the jail door.

Charles C. Simmons was the first witness to tell the story got somewhat mixed in his testimony and for the elucidation of the court and the attorneys. Dr. Crockett drew a diagram, showing the street and building chiefly concerned in the affair. "Jackson square" incidentally came in for its share of glory. Simmons (as) fired very freely under Attorney Moore's cross-examination. This gist of his testimony was that Chief Peabody called upon Libby to stop. He saw the officer reach for his revolver and later heard two shots. He did not see either shot fired as he preferred eating an orange to being mixed up in the scrape. Fred Swift, who resides in Singer block over the Chinese laundry, was in his shop at the rear of the block when he heard somebody come running into Beechwoods street. He heard Peabody say, "Stop or I'll shoot," followed by a revolver shot. Mr. Swift ran upstairs to a window, from which he saw "Guy" Libby running toward the block with Peabody in hot pursuit. The witness then testified that the officer ran to within six or eight feet of the engine house, halted, took deliberate aim and fired. Witness thought the men were about 70 feet apart when the second shot was fired. He heard Chief Peabody say, "I told you to stop." When Mr. Swift's testimony was concluded, Attorney Moore asked him if he did not have some special hostility to the officer. "I didn't know that I had," replied the witness. "Because your testimony all the way through has been to the effect that you saw John Rakes heard the officer command Libby to stop, and saw both shots fired. It was this witness who went after the doctor, Arthur J. Henry saw both shots fired, and was one of the first to make the locker room sorry Guy, but I told you to stop," was what he heard the officer say to Libby. "I told you I was coming out here didn't I?" was Libby's reply. Frank Hodgkins, Alton Foster, Maurice Hall and Earl Crockett were playing "four old cat" back of McDonald's drug store when the shooting occurred. They all testified to seeing Chief Peabody with a smoking revolver in his hand, and the second shot had been fired, and all were present at the locker when Libby was being examined.

James H. Feyer, who claimed to be the first person at the locker after the shooting, heard Chief Peabody tell Guy he was sorry he had shot him. "Oh, you shoot your own wife," Libby is alleged to have answered. Chief Peabody told the wounded man that he could not let him go home. "You had better let me go, now you have shot me," Libby answered. On cross-examination Mr. Feyer said he thought Libby was trying to escape between the buildings.

The only witness in defense was the prisoner, Chief Peabody. The warrant on which he had arrested Libby, and which was issued by Judge Prescott, May 17, was read in evidence. Mr. Peabody said he had arrested Libby on the front end of the car while coming into Thomaston from Mill River, and had told Libby to go up to Judge Linscott's office with him and his gun. Libby had made no reply. When the car stopped Libby got out first, walked around the car, and the officer supposed started for the sidewalk to go up into Judge Linscott's office. When Chief Peabody saw that he was headed for Beechwoods street, instead of the judge's office he called for Libby to stop. Libby started to run and Mr. Peabody called again, at the same time following Libby on the run. When the officer got by Singer block he told Libby to stop or he would fire. Libby did not obey this command and the officer fired the air. Libby kept on running and Mr. Peabody followed, also on the run. He checked his revolver as he went, and when he was nearly at the corner of the engine house he stepped into a rut or hollow which jerked him backward, causing the weapon to explode. Mr. Peabody said he supposed Libby was running between the buildings with the intention of escaping. He did not know whether Libby had been mentioned and he never entered his head that Libby was going there. When the second shot was fired he had no aim, wasn't ready to fire and certainly had no intention of firing.

Chief Peabody was sharply questioned by the county attorney as to what he intended to do after cocking the revolver a second time, but stoutly asserted that he didn't know where he intended to shoot and that the discharge was purely accidental.

Many of the spectators were plainly hostile to Chief Peabody, and when referred to as a lot of clackers for the state, answered with hisses.

"We're all citizens," remarked Frank P. Libby, from his seat in the witness box. "And this is a case where you have no right to speak until called upon," rejoined Attorney Thompson.

Attorney Moore when the evidence was all in moved for the prisoner's discharge on the ground that the officer was carrying out his official duty, and that the shooting was a result of a quarrel which no one felt more sorry than the officer himself. County Attorney Howard argued that the affair would prove a very serious one in the event of Mr. Libby's death, and was serious in the event of a conviction of the prisoner.

Mr. Peabody, who was held for bail, made no objection to fixing the bonds at a few enough figure so that Chief Peabody could obtain bail. With a result already seen.

In Social Circles

Mrs. Everett A. Jones of Boston, who has been spending a few days at her former home in this city, returned Monday.

Mrs. William J. McDougall, who has been critically ill at her home in Hinkle, is now reported as improving.

The Robekah Tunes in Celli Fellows' hall Friday night was one of the best yet. The committee in charge comprised Mrs. Rosa Smith, Mrs. Matt Cables, Thomas Nickerson and W. B. Hills.

Mrs. S. T. Kimball gives a linen-shower at her home on Maple street Thursday evening in honor of Miss Monica Crockett. It will be the first in a series of such events, preceding Miss Crockett's wedding, June 5.

Mrs. W. S. White gave a bridge party at her home on Middle street Friday evening in honor of Miss Claire Brown of Houlton. The prizes were won by Mrs. S. T. Kimball and Miss Jeannette Healey. The lunch consisted of omelette, creamed potatoes, hot rolls, coffee, miraschino ice cream, cake, salted almonds, candy and olives. The place cards had pretty rose decorations.

Mrs. Mabel Capon of Westhead Lake has been spending a few days in this city, the guest of her sister, Mrs. Chester Hamilton.

Perley Ames is home from Boston, the guest of his father, George W. Ames, Oliver street.

Mrs. W. G. Fuller, Jr., and son Richard leave today for Baldwin, Kansas, where they will visit for a couple of months at Mrs. Fuller's former home. Miss Elizabeth Fuller left Saturday for Old Town for an extended visit. Mr. Fuller left yesterday for Boston, whence he sails at 6:30 a. m. Thursday in the steamship Cymric of the White Star line for a summer in Great Britain.

Invitations are out for the wedding of Monica Louise Crockett and Monty Russell Pillsbury, which takes place June 5 at 8 p. m., at the bride's residence 69 North Main street.

Mrs. Jefferson Borden, Jr., of Fall River is making a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hills.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Messer and wife are spending the week in Salem, Mass. Mrs. Mabel Mossman of Union visited friends in this city last week.

Fred A. Thornike and George W. Lachelder went to Boston Saturday night on a short business trip.

Mrs. Martha C. Reed left yesterday for Boston, where she will visit for several weeks.

Miss Suzanne Perry arrived Sunday from Seattle, Washington. Her mother, Mrs. George T. Perry, is very ill in Knox hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Black of Brooklyn are visiting Mr. Black's father, Col. G. L. Black at the Brook. Mr. Black, junior, has been traveling through the South with "The Boy Behind the Gun," a thrilling melodrama descriptive of the Japanese war. He was an eye-witness of some of the Southern race-war tragedies. Two members of the company in their negro makeup were nearly mobbed while hastening through the streets to catch a train. Mr. and Mrs. Black will probably spend much of the summer here.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Stubbs returned last week from a two weeks' visit in Virginia and the Jamestown Exposition. They had a most enjoyable outing, seeing many sights of great interest to them and forming many delightful acquaintances. The trip from Rockland to Norfolk and return was made entirely by water.

John E. Leach entertained a stag party at his home last Tuesday evening. The evening was devoted to cards, cigars and conversation. A delicious lunch prepared by Mrs. Leach was a fitting climax to an evening's enjoyment only to be had in a home like Mr. Leach's.

Mrs. George E. Cross is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Martha W. in Boston. Mrs. Cross expects to be away from home about a year, in the course of which she will visit relatives in the South.

President White of Colby College was entertained by Dr. and Mrs. Juddkins Sunday.

Miss Mary Hitchcock has returned from New York.

Miss Carrie A. Barnard is in Boston, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Shaw.

Manchester, N. H., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Shaw.

OUR CONTEST.

If the readers of this paper only knew the many wonderful things they would see at the Jamestown Exposition there would be a wild scramble for the privilege of being on contestants. There is the long delightful trip from Boston to Norfolk, Virginia, the stay at the Exposition grounds with its many wonderful attractions, the natives of the world in Hampton Roads within easy access, the many points of historical interest, the many wonders of nature, the return trip by rail, visiting Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Boston and other places with all the pleasures that this means. The person who wins in Rockland and the winner of the side of Rockland have the privilege of selecting a companion. The Courier-Gazette pays all the expenses of four going, staying and coming. If you were offered this trip how many would refuse? With a little work you have a chance to win. We haven't missed an exposition for many years and desire to keep up the record. The contest is just starting and there is room for all. There should be a lot of contestants from Rockland and as many more outside the city. Come in and talk it over with us. We can easily show you how to proceed. If you cannot enter yourself get a friend interested. Four persons should go. Why not you be one of the number?

CAPT. WILLEY'S CHANGE.

Captain Walter Willey of Thomaston is going in command of the new five masted schooner Fannie Palmer which is nearing completion at the Perry & Small yard, in Bath. The craft will launch a week from next Saturday. Captain Willey was formerly in the L. Herbert Taft and enters from the Jane Palmer to go in the new schooner.

A little Kodak taken occasionally, especially after eating, will remove sour stomach, belching and heartburn. J. B. Jones, of Newport, Tenn., 4939, has three bottles of Kodak cured him of dyspepsia. It is sold here by Wm. H. Kittredge.

IN THEATRICAL CIRCLES

GRIMES' CELLAR DOOR.

The attraction at Farwell opera house on tomorrow night Wednesday, May 22, will be "Grimes' Cellar Door." James B. Mackie's latest and best success. Mr. Mackie was for years the principal comedian in Chas. Hoyt's "A Bunch of Keys" Co., playing the part of "Grimes' Ma Boy" which he made famous throughout the United States. "Grimes' Cellar Door" is the same kind of farce comedy that dramatist Hoyt made so famous a generation ago. Bright, witty and full of clean humor. For the present production Mr. Mackie has had "Grimes' Cellar Door" re-arranged to suit the present style of entertainment, by adding several song "bits," new business and funny situations. The company is quite large and composed of a number of very clever people, assisted by a chorus of very pretty girls. Seats now on sale.

NO MOTHER TO GUIDE HER.

"No Mother to Guide Her" is the title of a new melodrama which will be presented in this city at the Farwell opera house, May 21. As the name indicates the play abounds with human emotions and cannot fail to impress everybody who witnesses it with its wonderfully clever plot, its thrilling situations, its splendid stage settings and everything else that makes a well rounded performance. Miss Lillian Mortimer, an actress of more than ordinary ability, is the authoress of the production and has chosen for her characters a carefully selected company and no expense has been spared to give to the public a finished production. Seats on sale Monday morning.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

Stetson's Big Double Uncle Tom's Cabin will be the attraction at the Farwell opera house this Tuesday evening, May 21. The play has been seen in every section of this country and has had and still retains a popularity never equalled. It is played by a company of more than 60 people, of whom are 25 Southern darlings, whose harmonious voices blend in the old plantation melodies and the old Southern slave songs that long ago touched the hearts of a nation, making an effectiveness and realism never before known in Uncle Tom's Cabin. Some of the most notable of the scenes are the Sawney river by moonlight, the cotton fields in full bloom, the Old river in winter and lastly the beautiful transformation scene, showing Eva's ascension to the celestial city.

The Empire Comedy Company will be the closing attraction of the season at the Farwell opera house. This company will open a three days' engagement on next Monday night, May 27, presenting an entirely new repertoire of comedy dramas with refined vaudeville and illustrated songs. Some of the plays to be presented will be "A Russian Slave," "At Fort Bliss" and "A Game of Chance." Monday night will be ladies' night and every one should be sure and turn out and see the best attraction of the season. Seats go on sale Saturday morning and the box office opens at 9 o'clock. Telephone, 59.

IN SPORTING CIRCLES

Thomaston High Wins One-and Loses One--Rockland High Stays at Home.

Thomaston High was defeated in Wisconsin Saturday 10 to 9, losing the game in the last inning. A foul ball, which was called by the Wisconsin umpire netted that team three runs. Winchbach pitched for Thomaston. Earl Marshall of Rockland was one of the umpires.

Yesterday Thomaston defeated Belfast High 11 to 5. Cunningham, who had a record of 17 strikeouts early in the season was knocked out of the box in the second inning. Robeson, who succeeded him did better. Winchbach pitched a fine game till the 7th, when he was succeeded by Hodgkins, who struck out six men in succession. The fielding of Morse and Crocker was a feature. The summary:

Thomaston ..... 3 1 0 0 3 1 1 2-11
Belfast ..... 0 0 0 0 1 4 0 9-5
Base hits, Thomaston 9, Belfast 8. Three base hit, Wilson. Two-base hits, Winchbach 2, Cunningham 2. Bases on balls, off Winchbach 2, off Cunningham 2, off Robeson 2. Struck out, by Winchbach 6, Hodgkins 6, Cunningham 3, Robeson 7. Double play, Foster, Winchbach and Cogan. Umpires, White of Belfast and Marshall of Rockland. Score, Thompson, Error, Thomaston 3, Belfast 7.

"Four of the T. H. S. baseball players also play in the band," Thomaston herald. They can't beat the drum, but they can't beat it H. S.

Both Kennistons will probably play in Augusta this season. Harry is already with the team and Edin Kenniston is expected to join the team in a few days. He is now with Lowell.

Because their excursion boat did not come Rockland High did not make the trip to Bluehill Saturday. The captain of the Ruth was afraid of getting fog-bound at Bluehill.

Billy Dunning of Bangor wants to match Tom Sawyer with the winner of the Dingy-Connolly bout in Milneket next week. Tom wrote back that he would prefer to meet anybody else as he is desirous of fighting Connolly in this city next month.

The strong Lincoln Academy team is scheduled to play here next Saturday. Rockland High has had hard luck with its schedule thus far. Two games were canceled, one was knocked out by rain, and a fourth was eliminated because the boat didn't come.

THE INFANTRY ELECTION.

Contest for Second Lieutenant Won By Sergeant Stewart—Election of Colonel Is Ordered.

Captain—James F. Carver.
First Lieutenant—Albert F. P. Hyler.
Second Lieutenant—George T. Stewart.

These were the officers elected by Co. H. Tilton Light Infantry, Tuesday evening. The vote for captain and first lieutenant was practically unanimous, but three ballots were required before the company had made choice of its second lieutenant.

The election was presided over by Major William C. Goodwin, retired, of Bath. Both commissioned officers of the company were present, together with the retiring captain, Allie O. Pillsbury, Major John Bird and former Lieut. Willard C. Pooler.

For captain James F. Carver had 19 votes and there was only one for Frank Butler, A. F. P. Hyler and Frank Post. The scattering votes were cast more in a spirit of mischief than for any other reason, and every member of the company applauded when Mr. Carver's election was announced.

For first lieutenant Albert F. P. Hyler had 15 votes, Frank Post 3 and Frank Butler 1. On the first ballot for second lieutenant George T. Stewart had 11 votes, Wilbur S. Cross had 10 and one blank ballot was cast. On the second ballot the rival candidates had 11 votes each. One member of the company, changed his preference on the third ballot and Mr. Stewart was elected, 12 to 10.

Three boxes of choice cigars were opened after the election was over and hearty congratulations were in order. Now let us have a little glimpse of the new commissioned officers.

James F. Carver, the new captain of the company, is 32 years of age, a native of this city, engaged in the restaurant business. He enlisted in Co. H. in 1894, and during the War with Spain went to Chickamauga with the 1st Maine Regiment. He was detached from the company for the recruiting service, and with three other enlisted officers obtained 200 recruits at the Lewisport headquarters in five weeks. After the war he rose from private to corporal, sergeant and quartermaster sergeant, and four ago—after the army and navy maneuvers at Portland—was elected 2d lieutenant. His commission as 1st lieutenant dates back to February, 1906. He is well versed in military tactics and popular with his fellow guardsmen. He belongs to several fraternities and during his high school course was prominent in baseball and football.

A. F. P. Hyler, elected 1st lieutenant, is 28, and a native and resident of Thomaston. He enlisted in Co. H. in February, 1898, and went to Chickamauga with the regiment. He was appointed corporal in 1896 and promoted to sergeant the same year. In 1901 he was made 1st sergeant and company clerk, and in February 1906 was elected 2d lieutenant. He is prominent in the affairs of his town and especially active as a Republican worker.

Geo. T. Stewart, 2d lieutenant, is 35, and a native of Brunswick, Lincoln county. He enlisted in Co. H. April 16, 1898, and went with the 1st Maine regiment to Chickamauga. He was promoted to sergeant in 1904 and has been quartermaster sergeant one year. Mr. Stewart is registry clerk in the post office.

Co. H. thus secures three officers of whom the guards will have reason to feel proud.

Orders have been issued from the office of the adjutant-general, calling an election for colonel in the First Infantry, National Guards, State of Maine. The term of Colonel Lucius H. Kendall, commanding the regiment, is not out till August 5, but the election is ordered for June 5, in order to give the new colonel opportunity to arrange for the maneuvers which begin August 8. The election will be held in August. General Davis will preside. Colonel Kendall is not a candidate for re-election, having served in his present rank for 18 years. The candidates include Lieut. Col. Charles Collins, Major W. O. Peterson and Major Frank B. Welch, of Portland, and Captain Gilbert M. Elliott of Brunswick. The order provides for the filling of any vacancies which may result from the election of colonel.

Now that the white heat of discussion about spelling reform is past, the "Confessions of a Spelling Reformer," by Professor T. R. Lounsbury of Yale, appears in the May Atlantic as a cool and sensible official utterance on this subject. The writer shows that, as we have entirely lost our phonetic sense, and have, in the most inaccurate way, attempted reformation by etymology, the only hope of a permanent new spelling can come from the adoption of a system which appeals to the rising generation. Professor Lounsbury makes the important point that our present orthography is peculiarly objectionable, by ascribing to the intellectual faculties to sleep at the most active period of life. What little reasoning power the child possesses appears useless in the mazes of such words as read, head, red, bed, lead, hear, and bear, and what has been muddled in childhood is apt to remain muddled the rest of one's life.

Letter to H. H. Pandall
Rockland, Maine.

Dear Sir: Here's another problem for those arithmetic and algebra scholars: If Levee is worth $1.75 a gallon, and spreads a half further than average paint, and wears twice as long, what average paint would a gallon put on painters' wages being $3.26 a day and day's work a gallon of paint.

The answer is minus $1.75 a gallon, that is, you could afford to paint with average paint if somebody gives it to you and pays half the painter's wages.

Yours truly,

THE JAMESTOWN EXPOSITION

The Courier-Gazette's Voting Contest, Through Which Four Knox County Persons Will be sent to Jamestown Free of All Charges.

The Courier-Gazette again presents one of its high-class voting contests, the winners in which will be sent to the great Jamestown Exposition, this paper paying all expenses from Rockland to Jamestown.

Class A.—This class is open to any person living in Rockland.
Class B.—This class is open to any person living in Knox County outside of Rockland.

The winner in each class will be the one receiving the highest number of votes. Each winner will be entitled to invite one friend, the expenses of the four to be paid by this paper.

Read the Rules of the Contest which will govern in all particulars.

A coupon will be printed in each issue of the paper. Coupons should be put in packages of ten, plainly marked with the name of the person for whom the votes are intended, and the class in which they are placed.
It is essential to the contest that the names of not less than two contestants appear in each class and remain actively engaged until the close. In the event of the withdrawal of all active candidates but one, there can be no contest and the prize will be withdrawn.
1. For every yearly subscription to this paper at $2 two hundred votes will be given. A new subscriber may pay as many years in advance as he wishes and receive votes at the rate of 200 for each year paid, but all these payments must be made in advance at one time.
2. For every $2 paid by present subscribers, either arrearages of accounts or in advance on present subscription, one hundred votes will be given.
3. Changes in subscriptions from one member to another in the same family, etc., made for obvious purpose of securing the increased number of votes given to new subscribers, cannot be permitted.
4. There will be no single votes for sale; votes can only be obtained as above set forth.
Votes will be counted each Wednesday and Saturday morning during the contest and the figures of such counting printed in the following issue of the paper.

MRS. NELLIE MAKHAM

MRS. GEO. A. JAMES

A nervous irritable woman, often on the verge of hysterics, is a source of misery to everyone who comes under her influence, and an unhappy and miserable herself. Such women not only drive husbands from home but are wholly unfit to govern children.

The ill of women act like a fire brand upon the nerves, consequently seven-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous despondency, the "blues", sleeplessness, and nervous irritability of women arise from some organic derangement.

Do you experience fits of depression with restlessness alternating with extreme irritability? Do you suffer from pains in the abdominal region, backache, bearing-down pains, nervous dyspepsia, sleeplessness, and almost continually cross and snappy? If so, your nerves are in a shattered condition and you are threatened with nervous prostration.

Proof is monumental that nothing in the world is better for nervous troubles of women than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs. Thousands and thousands of women can testify to this fact.

Mrs. Nellie Makham, of 151 Morgan St., Buffalo, N. Y., writes:—

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
"I was a wreck from nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs and today holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases of any medicine the world has ever known, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the laboratory at Lynn, Mass., which testify to its wonderful value.

A RHETORICAL TRIUMPH.

Sheridan's Speech in Connection With the Hastings Trial.

Answering a correspondent who asked about the speech of Sheridan in connection with the Warren Hastings trial, the London News says:

"That immense oratorical triumph was certainly not reported in the notes in question, for the Oude speech was not delivered during the trial. Sheridan pronounced it in the house of commons in the year before the trial in moving that the Oude charge should be one of the articles of the impeachment.

"No speech recorded in our history ever had such a reception. The entire house and all in the galleries violated the traditions of parliament and set a precedent that remains unfollowed by clapping furiously and continuously. Pitt, fully conscious of the extraordinary state of excitement disclosed by this breach of decorum, moved the adjournment on the unparalleled ground that 'the minds of members were too agitated to discuss the question with coolness and impartiality.' Sheridan had spoken for five hours and forty minutes. No full report of the speech exists. The best appeared in the London Chronicle for Feb. 8, 1787.

"The fame of the speech was such that when the trial came on 150 was gladly paid for a seat in the hall on the day of Sheridan's speech as a reward for the impeachment. Macaulay's account of that speech, which is both misleading and inaccurate in several respects, at least permits us to know the fact that the speaker was publicly embraced by Burke on resuming his seat. At a later stage in the trial—six years later, in fact—Sheridan delivered another speech, which was described by one of the auditors as an extraordinary rhetorical triumph."

The Cinchona Tree.

The cultivation of the cinchona tree is one of the principal industries of Java, and the chemical process adopted by the Dutch for the preparation of the drug is said to produce the best sulphate of quinine procurable. This is carried out in Holland, whether the bark is stripped from the trees and dried as exported. Cinchona plantations are frequent on the lower hills throughout Java, and the trees are of all sizes, from the mere sapling up to thirty feet high.

MR. HERZOG'S MOTOR CAR.

Can Do a Mile a Minute and Nearly Did John Donohue—Other Auto Gossip.

Lewis Herzog's motor car was the center of attraction last week. It is a three-seater Berliet of 60 h. p., and quite capable of doing a mile a minute on first-class roads.

It took three hours to make the trip from Augusta to this city and the chauffeur swore stoutly that he did not suppose such roads existed on the face of the globe. Mr. Herzog was accompanied by John L. Donohue, who has seen some fast traveling on two continents, but why never experienced anything like that ride. Whenever the car struck a bump, John's position would be changed from the rear seat to the driver's seat without his own wish or health being consulted.

Mr. Herzog's car was a real Rockland hove in sight; did he breathe freely again, and when dismounted from the car he swore by the shades of Hall Caine and Christy Mathewson that nothing would ever tempt him to go through a like experience again.

The parts for Mr. Herzog's car were manufactured in France and were assembled in this country by the Baldwin Locomotive Works. The car has a wheel base of 120 inches, a fact which perhaps doesn't signify much to the average reader until the latter is told that the only approach to it is David Talbot's car with a wheel base of 119 inches. Estimates as to the cost of the Herzog car vary from $700 to $1000, but whatever the cost it has no equal in this part of the state, either in speed or quality.

The Herzogs are unfortunately unable to use it in North Haven as the town fathers do not see it to allow buzz wagons there, but as Mr. Herzog and family divide their time between Crabtree's Point and Rockland the auto will not be permitted to go rusty.

The number of automobiles which have been registered to date since the law went into effect is 1,600, while at the same time last month it was 1448, showing a gain of 152. The number of licenses which have been granted to operators during the year is 1,284, while on the same date in April it was 1,783, a gain of 153 for the month. Applications are being received by nearly every mail and at the rate at which they are coming Maine machines will soon be wearing registration tags on which the first figure will be a "2."

W. S. White has traded his 1905 White steam car for a 1907 car of the same make. The discarded auto was 14 h. p., whereas the new machine is 40 h. p.

The Knox County Automobile Club expects to occupy its new club rooms the first of June. The garage in the same building will be opened about the same date.

Acting under the new Lord's day act, officers of the Canadian government last Sunday were posted along the American frontier to refuse admittance to all Sunday papers issued in the States. More than 15,000 papers were thus held up. People accustomed to get these papers are making a great ado and sending protests to Ottawa.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable by kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The best and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.
